A MURDEROUS LOVER.

Killed His Sweetheart, Wounded Her Mother and Sister and Shot Himself.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., March 14.—Infuriated by the refusal of Miss Gertrude Bailey to longer accept his attentions, Archie Belangos a young Frenchman, went to his home, near here, and after shooting his sweetheart and attempting to kill his mother and mother, went to the woods and committed suicide. Belangos' home was in Chevau, Ill., where Miss Bailey formerly lived.

When Belangos called at the house of trade's mother refused to permit him to trade. He, however, made his way to sister's home, where he shot his sister Anna, who was, and immediately shot Gertrude dead. Turning towards Anna the murderer dashed his revolver into his own neck, close to the jugular vein, and inflicted what is expected to prove a fatal wound. The mother rushed in to save her daughter, and Belangos, who had been almost entirely grazing her hand. The assassin fled to a ravine, followed by an excited crowd. He was soon found dead with a single bullet in his brain.

The Baileys moved to their farm from Chicago last fall. Relatives of Belangos residing in Chicago have been notified of his death, his dead girl was 21 years of age, her sister being 19.

GUNS FROM ENGLAND.

Five Breech-Loaders for the Esquimalt Fortifications.

VICTORIA, B. C., March 14.—Five new guns for the Esquimalt land fortifications were received from England yesterday and will be placed in position at once. They are breech-loaders of six-inch bore, with barrels 446 feet long. Three are intended for Macauley Point, while the other two will be mounted near Esquimalt light-house. The guns, though seemingly large, are not to be compared with those to arrive, and not to be expected to be of much use.

These latter are of nine-inch bore.

The Duke of Sermoneta, the new Italian Gov. of the colony, has had a long and important interview and negotiations with the British Ambassador at Rome on the subject of the English fortifications in Africa, at which the latter was assured that Rudini and his Cabinet had no intention of abandoning Canada. Besides, by acting strictly on the defensive, the alliance would be strengthened with the British, who now consider, is likely to be joined by the Americans, in their attacks; and it is very unlikely he will retire when his force would be certainly reduced to 20,000 men, it is true, from 30,000 to 30,000 dervishes in Africa, who, inspired by the news of the Italian reverses, are desirous to emulate the Abyssinian success, were pleased to consider resistance, however, to be obtained by raiding in the district stretching right away down the country to the Wady Haifa. This would be a hard task, and would not occur the occasional border fights, one of which a few months ago caused considerable losses on each side, but ended in the retreat of the English.

There are some signs of the recrudescence of dervish activity, and it is noticeable that Lord Cromer, in his usual annual speech, has dwelt long before the Italian reverses, foreshadowing further trouble in his remarks.

The works at Macauley Point are now well advanced, and the guns for the fortifications can be seen. From this point guns can be discharged with terrible effect and underneath they can be hidden with the greatest protection, the disappearing carriage being operated with hydraulic power.

A PAGE FROM THE PAST OF BUS.

History of the Notorious Elevator
Deal of 1892.

CHARGES IN AN AFFIDAVIT.

How the President of the School Board Came to Work so Hard for the Hale-Elevator Company.

Here is one chapter in the record of the man who has been elected President of the St. Louis Board of Public Schools, Henry Bus, Deputy Sheriff and Insurance Collector.

It begins with the election of Dr. Richard Barthold as President of the School Board, when Bus was placed in the position which later resulted in charges being made against him.

On the night of Barthold's election Bus, without whose vote Barthold would have been defeated, told Barthold that unless he was made Chairman of the Building Committee, he would vote against him. On the advice of friends, Barthold made the promise. Gist Black was elected Vice-President and the other members of the reform element exercised their privilege of selecting the Chairmanship of any committee by choosing that of the Building Committee, thus shunting Bus aside.

Bus succeeded, however, in securing a position on the committee.

In April, 1892, bills were introduced for eleven thousand dollars for the Board of Education building, then being erected. The specifications, drawn up by Supervising Architect Isaac F. Patterson, provided for hydraulic elevators and made no mention of direct electric elevators.

The invitation for bids attracted to St. Louis the representatives of various elevators companies, among them George L. Forman, Vice-President of the Standard Elevator Co. of Chicago, and representatives of the Laclede and Cudmore companies.

The Building Committee of the Board, composed of Henry Bus, Henry Trott, John R. Brady, and George W. J. Cudmore, and Robert Bullock, having, after investigation, decided that there was not room in the basement of the new building for boilers necessary to run a set of hydraulic elevators, voted to sub-commission of them to investigate the subject of electric elevators and to make a recommendation for or against them, together with information as to the arrangements that could be made.

This sub-committee consisted of Henry Bus, Alexander Cudmore and Walter J. Walt.

Before the report of the Building Committee was submitted to the Board, however, began to appear in the papers some crooked work was on foot. The Post-Dispatch investigated and secured from Vice-Presidents Geo. L. Forman of the Standard Company a copy of the statement. This statement was printed on April 10, 1892.

It was in effect that Forman, on reaching St. Louis, had found that he had to anticipate being placed on an important committee in the Building Committee. The specifications said nothing about direct electric elevators, but the committee at its meeting on April 7, 1892, had voted to place upon the recommendation of the sub-committee, and had laid the matter over twenty-four hours after opening the bids which included figures on direct electric elevators, nothing about them.

The next day, Forman, according to his statement, met Cudmore at the home of the latter and went over the whole ground with him. Cudmore was at first wary, but finally said that he was at the outset, not in favor of the Hale-Elevator Company. The following bills were out, but the presentation of the Laclede's gentlemen had said that they were in favor of the Hale-Elevator Company.

Afterward, the Laclede's company had agreed to withdraw its bills and nothing in the hot summer months, if the world would decide to use power for elevators from the company's plant, it would be worth $400 to $500 to Cudmore if he could arrange it. That amount was too small to be of any interest, according to his statement, of his conversation with Cudmore.

Afterward, the Laclede's company's agent conferred with the Hale-Elevator agent, and agreed to withdraw its bills for the Laclede's company and the Hale company.

Half of the amount, Forman stated, it had been told him by Cudmore, had been put into the Hale-Elevator Company.

Forman then asked Cudmore if it could not postpone the recommendation for one day and that he (Forman) would see if he could get $100,000 for the Hale-Elevator Company. Cudmore was afraid that further delay would cause criticism, but said he would see if he could not prevent the presentation of a quorum of the meeting that afternoon.

Cudmore returned at 4 o'clock that afternoon and said that he had been unable to find the two men he had counted on.

In this statement Forman made no mention of a subsequent meeting at which Bus, afterward stated, was present. The matter, however, was left in the hands of the meeting of the board, on April 12, caused an uproar. At that meeting Secretary Power announced that he had a communication to the board from George L. Forman.

There were immediate protests from Bus and Cudmore.

But in particular protest, Forman's charges should not be read, as they were un-substantiated and assailed honorable gentlemen. When Forman's charges were found to contain no charges, he requested that consideration of the contract be deferred until a statement, being prepared by him, could be presented. The contract was awarded to the Hale-Elevator Co. at $17,576, which was the highest, instead of the lowest bid.

Prior to the meeting Bus, Cudmore and Walt had entered denials to Forman's charges. The written statement prepared for the board by Forman was never presented, but it was printed in the Post-Dispatch.

That part of it referring to Bus was as follows:

"By his (George Bus') own statements, he seems to have a previous record of the sections of the Hale-Elevator and Laclede Power Co.'s representatives and at no time did he permit himself to look into the other side of the question."

"Mr. Bus says that I came to his office but once and that he has not seen me since.

"I want to tell his office and held conversations with him. His office and his office can be substantiated outside of his office."

He talked to him in the presence of witnesses several times, and still further, during their meeting on Friday evening, Mr. Bus met the writer at Nagel's restaurant, Sixth and St. Charles streets, in the upper public dining room, remaining there from 6:45 until 7:30 p.m.

"It was then and there that Mr. Bus, as spokesman, made the offer that if I would let the elevators go to the Hale-Elevator Company, as arranged, he would agree, right then and there, that he would receive the award of the contract for the direct elevators, if my price was not too exorbitant."

"Now, for Mr. Cudmore, he admits having called upon him at the Lindell on two occasions, and I photo of him, and, therefore, Mr. Cudmore came to the Lindell twice, and on the 11th, a.m. on Friday, remaining until 1:30 p.m., and still further, my remaining until 4:30 p.m., and still further, he put an appearance at Nagel's Restaurant at 6:45, leaving at 7:30 p.m."

"The photo of him must have been very interesting, during all this time, the part of the sub-committee recommending the Hale elevator was signed and on file with the Secretary."

(Signed) "GEO. L. FORMAN."

This was followed by an affidavit from Forman. This affidavit recited the appointment of an investigating committee. Afterward it was left on file with Secretary Power.

It was sworn to before George W. Hale, now Judge of the Probate Court. It set forth that on April 7, 1892, the day when the ele-

MR. VON GERSTE AND THE WIDOW.

Shadow of a Tragedy Hanging Over Their Charming Romance.

THE CULINARY COUNT DEAD.

Such Is Mrs. Peasey's Fear and Her Heart Bleeds for Her Dear Friend Who Never Came Back.

The friends of Julius Von Gerste would like to know what has become of him, dead or alive. He may have departed from the land of the living or he may be only playing the role of a departed spirit for purposes of his own.

Among others, a fair widow, Mrs. E. Poakey of 1721 Washington avenue, mourns his loss deeply and for more than one reason.

This fair widow is an invalid. Until last spring she was healthy, gay, light-hearted and light-footed. She was independent, too, living very comfortably in the large three-story mansion at 1721 Washington avenue. She was a "securite" roomer and boarder. She had a number of friends, Mr. Carr and Isaac Lewis. She set a good table, was very kind to the boys and they took a great interest in her.

They took books at one another, talked with each other with wide paper, interchanged sports on the back and indulged in other sports pleasantries germane to the boys in the low variety stage, and the male pasture.

These sportive manifestations of statesmanship began while a number of claims of authorizing the payment of claims were being made to the public. Mrs. Poakey's injuries were caused from some other source. This she denied and Von Gerste, an eyewitness to the whole thing, said that she was not the only one who suffered. They became better friends than ever.

"I heard they were to be married," said Mrs. Poakey.

That was in June, One day Von Gerste disappeared. It was as if the earth had swallowed him. And with him Mrs. Poakey disappeared. She was a little girl, said the attorney.

ALBERT WALLACE WAS HANGED.

The Murderer of His Sister Executed at Peoria, Ill.

SWUNG OFF AT 11:04 A. M.

Full History of the Dastardly Crime for Which He Paid the Supreme Penalty.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.
PEORIA, Ill., March 14.—Albert Wallace, the murderer of Mrs. Belle Bowley, his sister, was hanged here this morning. The drop fell at 11:04 o'clock. Very strong efforts had been made to save Wallace's life, but the Governor, after hearing elaborate arguments, finally declined to interfere. There were no sensational scenes connected with the execution.

Wallace passed a bad night, being sick all night with pain in the bowels. He partook of a light breakfast this morning and then was in a very weak and completely unrefreshed, having lost that nerve for which he was noted.

At 11 o'clock Sheriff Stoen stood the death warrant over him, and he then proceeded down-stairs with him to the enclosure containing the gallows. He was placed over the death trap, and straps and handcuffs put on him. Sheriff Stoen asked him if he had anything to say.

He replied: "Not a word." Then a cream buff-colored robe was put on him, and a cap of the same material, and the robe adjusted around his neck.

Wallace shot through the trap with scarcely a struggle, and he was pronounced dead eleven minutes afterwards.

On February 18, 1886, just after supper, Albert Wallace, a young man of 24, who had been hailing cabs, and became enraged at his sister, Mrs. Belle Bowley, with whom he was living, because he had to eat by himself. The week previous to this he had slapped his sister for some trifling remark, and she had run away down by John Bowley, his brother-in-law and the husband of Belle. Wallace at that time made serious threats, but no attention was paid to him.

After eating supper he went into the sitting room. Bowley was lying on a couch. Lymon, the hired man, was reading, and Mrs. Bowley was also reading. After breaking over the situation for a few moments Wallace arose, went to the kitchen, got his shotgun and a handful of loaded shells, and, going to the sitting room window, shot and killed Bowley. The bullet charge entered Bowley's hand, which had been held at his face, as he was suffering with a gripe, and thus saved his life. The other bullet struck the floor. The hired girl then reloading the gun, and as the hired girl ran out of the house, he gave her SHRIEKS OF THE SOPRANO. They Brought Chicago's Brave Blussoats to the Rescue.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 14.—An immense crowd gathered in front of North Side Turner Hall, attracted thither by the sight of a dozen policemen rushing up the stairs to the hall, waving clubs and revolvers.

From inside the building came the sound of war and carnage. Shrieks in a high soprano key sounded above the noise of a massacre of helpless women and children was going on. A red hot Anarchist rally was also suggested as the cause of the tumult, and the crowd drew back to a safe distance to await the outcome of the expected collision between the supposed destroyers and the preservers of law and order. The police, however, burst in the door leading to the hall, the courageous officers stumbling over one another in their commendable efforts to see which one would first arrive on the scene of battle.

Their ambition was brought to an untimely end, however, when, instead of finding their lives in imminent danger, they girded custodians of the peace pulled up short before Adolph Rosenecker's big oratorical front. The heart-thrilling sound of battle emanating from the hall, however, was found to be merely the orchestra's faithful interpretation of Tchaikowsky's overture, describing the war between Russia and France.

The blue-coats, upon seeing what was taking place, fell over one another in precipitate retreat, the crowd dispersed and the band played on.

FRIEND OF WALES.

An Indian Physician From Canada Visiting the City.

Dr. Oronhyatekwa of Toronto, Canada, accompanied by T. Bayly, occupy parlors C and D of the Planters' Hotel. The doctor is the head of the Society of Friends, an English and American insurance organization. He is here on private business.

The doctor is a handsome man, and his history is as interesting as his appearance. He is a full-blooded Indian, with a decided taste for the finer things of life.

When quite a young "laddie" he met the Prince of Wales, who was then traveling through this country. He acted as guide through the country. The Prince was greatly struck by his frankness and frankness.

This was easily remedied and Oronhyatekwa was sent to the finest European colleges. He later studied medicine. He was anxious to again visit America and that is how he came to be here. In addition to these meetings he has been arranged. They will be strictly private and confidential, being strictly by invitation. The latter part of this month he will conduct a series of meetings at the Academy of Music, Phila.

STANDS BY THE GENERAL.

St. Louis Salvationists Will Not Follow Ballington Booth.

Brigadier George French, who is the principal officer for the Salvation Army for six western States, has returned from New York, where he was called because of the threatened disruption of the army by the resignation of Commander Ballington Booth.

Brigadier French says that the withdrawal of Ballington Booth from the order will remain in the army. It will remain loyal to a man to the old General.

The matter of the recall of Ballington Booth, says Gen. French, has presented over the country have been at all. They do not understand our army system.

Gen. French, who is the principal of the army understands this, and accepts the condition as a contract. For officers of the grade of colonel and above, the pay will remain in a country is five per cent.

Three years ago Ballington Booth attended the International Congress at London. At that time Gen. Booth informed him and all other officers that the pay of 1886, changes of leaders of the army would be made all over the world.

The Republicans have mentioned an candidate. Having control of the School Board and consequently of the Elections Committee, their confidence is inspired by the belief that they can sufficient votes to elect a Rep. who will vote for the demands of the Northern Indian tribes. In Toronto he has established a school for them. He will remain here several days.

FOR DICKMAN'S PLACE.

Candidates Already Sprouting Up in the Tenth District.

Already the fight over the seat in the School Board vacated by John H. Dickman from the Tenth District is becoming spirited. Both Democrats and Republicans are scheming to carry the election on May 5, and there will be exciting times on election day.

The Democratic candidate will probably be William F. McHugh, who has been down by John Bowley, his brother-in-law and the husband of Belle. Wallace at that time made serious threats, but no attention was paid to him.

After eating supper he went into the sitting room. Bowley was lying on a couch. Lymon, the hired man, was reading, and Mrs. Bowley was also reading. After breaking over the situation for a few moments Wallace arose, went to the kitchen, got his shotgun and a handful of loaded shells, and, going to the sitting room window, shot and killed Bowley. The bullet charge entered Bowley's hand, which had been held at his face, as he was suffering with a gripe, and thus saved his life. The other bullet struck the floor. The hired girl then reloading the gun, and as the hired girl ran out of the house, he gave her

FOR RUINING HER SISTER.

Annie Craig Arrested for Inducing a Young Girl to Sin.

Josephine Craig of Seventh and O'Fallon streets was arrested Friday night in a disreputable resort at 31 South Sixth street on suspicion of being under age.

The police claim that the girl's sister, Annie Craig, alias Laura Jones, lured her into the house at the instigation of the keeper of the house, and compelled her to lead a life of shame.

Annie denies the story, and says that her sister is of age and entered the place of her own accord.

The keeper and Annie Craig will be prosecuted in the police court. The girl was turned over to her parents.

This was followed by the dispatch of 3

SHE WAS OUT TOO LATE.

Miss Hazel Ward Held Up at 2 O'Clock in the Morning.

Hazel Ward of 120 Pine street was taking a stroll around Tenth and Chestnut streets at 2 o'clock a. m., when two negroes held her up and attempted to rob her.

All that saved Hazel's bacon was the fact that she had no money. Patrolman witness the act, and the negroes fled.

He was sentenced to the house October 25, 1885, but secured a stay on an insanity plea. He was then resented on a March 14.

He was immediately re-arrested on a telegram from St. Paul, Minn., stating that he is wanted there for grand larceny. He has served a term in the penitentiary at Stillwater, Minn.

WHEN BOOTH GOES TO CHICAGO.

Then There Will Be Secession in Earnest.

WHAT ONE OFFICER SAYS.

Commander Ballington Can Have All the Men He Wants for the Asking.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 14.—An immense crowd gathered in front of North Side Turner Hall, attracted thither by the sight of a dozen policemen rushing up the stairs to the hall, waving clubs and revolvers.

From inside the building came the sound of war and carnage. Shrieks in a high soprano key sounded above the noise of a massacre of helpless women and children was going on. A red hot Anarchist rally was also suggested as the cause of the tumult, and the crowd drew back to a safe distance to await the outcome of the expected collision between the supposed destroyers and the preservers of law and order. CHICAGO, Ill., March 14.—The Record to-day says:

"Ballington Booth is coming to Chicago.

I expect him within a fortnight. When he comes there will come secession."

This is the forecast of an officer of the Northwestern Division of the Salvation Army, and a believer in what he calls the "Terror-Atlantic autocracy."

He continued: "Declaration of loyalty won't stand the way an instant when the question of highest usefulness and duty comes up for decision. The War Cry scandals are a damning thing to us while we remain here, but when we go to Chicago, Ballington Booth's intention that the intimate causes of his revolt should become public. That is all the difference with his family. The public will be shocked to learn that he has been a traitor to his country."

He added: "Ballington Booth's intention is to make the Army a political party.

STRIKE IT OUT.

Mr. Ferriss made a good fight that ought to have been successful in the Council last night, against the appropriation of $4,200 for ornamenting the grounds in rear of the mounted police stable in Forest Park. Over $50,000 have already been spent upon those stables, to which about twenty acres are attached for the grazing of the horses of the mounted police. The approach to the stables from the front is one of the finest in the park—with gravelled roadway, granite coping, graded lawn, etc. The land upon which it is proposed to expend nearly $5,000 more is in the rear of the stables, and the improvement is, to say the least,
wholly unnecessary.The plea that the ground is needed for "exercising the horses" of the mounted police is absurd. If the mounted police do not give their horses enough exercise
in the regular performance of their duty,
they are a costly and superfluous luxury.
Moreover, there are good roads in the park adjacent to the stables, where horses can be abundantly exercised without further expense to the taxpayers.But if the item were justified by necessity, it has no place in an emergency appropriation bill, which is intended to provide for deficits. An appropriation for such a purpose should stand alone and should be made upon its merits if made at all.It is to be hoped that the House of Delegates will strike out this item. The streets, the Work-house, the City Hospital, and other public institutions stand in urgent need of all the money that can be spared from the city treasury.
Under the circumstances, an appropriation of this kind is a profligate waste.

SPOILSMAN KALBFELD'S THEORY.

According to Chairman Kalbfeld of the Republican City Central Committee, the taxpayers of St. Louis, Democratic, Republican and non-partisan, are being taxed for the salaries of men in the City Hall who are not servants of the people but of the Republican party. Speaking of the places Mayor Walbridge is said to be filling with his henchmen, he says: "This is utterly wrong. Those places do not belong to the Mayor, but to the Republican party of St. Louis, who elected him."If these places actually belong to the Republican party, Mayor Walbridge has the right to fill them with Republicans of his own choosing, without regard to fitness and without consulting the politicians of his party. In doing what Chairman Kalbfeld so severely condemns
the Mayor is simply acting upon the peccatorial spoils theory Chairman Kalbfeld has proclaimed.The Republicans alone paid the salaries of city officials, no one else could justly quarrel with the appointments made by a Republican Mayor or Republican politicians. But the Post-
Dispatch takes occasion to inform Mr.
Kalbfeld that the taxpayers of all parties and of no party, have an equal interest in seeing that men of good record and business ability are chosen to fill the city offices.The government is a business concern and should be managed by busi-ness men, on business lines. The offices under it, from that of Mayor to that of Janitor in a public building, belong to the people, and not to any political party or clique of politicians.

THAT FORGED LETTER.

The Republic has been caught and exposed in the worst performance that has disgraced Missouri journalism in many months. It confesses that, being informed by somebody that "a letter" had been written by Gov. Stone, it concocted in its own office a letter to which it signed
"yours truly, Wm. J. Stone," and printed it as genuine, knowing it to be a fraud and a forgery.Now why relieve the pressure by developing one of the gubernatorial mayors admitted it calls upon Gov. Stone to print the genuine letter if he objects to the forged one. Gov. Stone is under no obligation to do anything of the kind.It appears that Mr. McKinley has many a dollar by tickling the vanity of Republicans. He sends them artful typewritten letters from himself. His nomination would be to some extent a triumph of the typewriter.Why not relieve the pressure by develop-

the Republic is rather inclined to boast of its forgery. It seems unconscious of the revolution thus made of its own character and of the methods and organization of the political desperadoes whose organization it is.But decent citizens who would not forge
a letter to make a point in a controversy will know how to draw the moral.
A newspaper that will confront forgery and brazen it out when exposed will be about its circulation. It will also impose upon the public with false statements of fake advertising.

TO-MORROW'S SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.

To-morrow's Sunday Post-Dispatch will be the most attractive, the brightest, the most strikingly illustrated Sunday newspaper published in the West or South.Among other brilliant features will be the following:The Sunday Post-Dispatch Magazine Supplement—A big paper in itself, filled with fascinating fiction, beautiful pictures, thrilling tales of adventure, and peril, strange stories of strange people
and strange animals, two pages of fun,
the latest dramatic news, the most exquisite current verse, authoritative literary, musical and religious departments,
in fact a very treasure-house of entertainment and instruction. It will contain more good reading matter and illustrations than any 35 cent magazine.Bill Nye's Successor in the Field of Humor—Walt McDougall, the inimitable
cartoonist who made the late Bill Nye's face and figure laughably famous, is now that humorist's natural and worthy successor. He will begin the first of a note-able series of humorous letters, illustrated by himself, in to-morrow's paper.The Sunday Post-Dispatch Magazine endeavoring to defeat the will of a Democratic majority. The gold standard people ought to be as fair.Though the July weather is rarely may be frosted as completely as was his

on the same day as that of the A. P. A.
at Kansas City.A maritime canal from Hudson River to the great lakes is a good scheme, but in winter it would not work so well.If Foraker doesn't flicker at St. Louis
he will expect great hunks of patronage
from his beloved compatriot McKinley.Possibly Great Britain would back up Manifest Destiny.

From the Mason (Mo.) Democrat.

If the Democrats of Missouri will but do their whole duty other traitors dailies like the Kansas City Times will go into the hands of the receiver and be sold to the highest bidder, for a tenth of what they were worth before their betrayal of their party; and the little gold bug weekly editors
that were once so blatant but even now so gentle, will go out of business and become peanut vendors or join the Salvation Army.

A Great Paper and a Great Cause.

From the Centralia (Mo.) Courier.

In the fight for constitutional money and the rights of the common people here in the Mississippi Valley, what a power for good is the Post-Dispatch. Against the seductive influence of wealth, it stands up and does battle for bimetallism. A great paper advocating a great cause in behalf of a great people—what a magnificent spectacle!

None but the Trifid and True.

From the Mexico (Mo.) Intelligencer.

The gold-standard men under the leadership of Gov. Francis are making a systematic fight throughout the State for the control of delegates to the Sedgefield convention.
They are backed by the power of Federal patronage. The corporations are with them, and nothing will be left undone to override the will of the people at Sedgefield.
The only thing for Andrew Democrats to do is to disregard personal feeling, go to the school district meetings
on April the 11th and see that none but tried and true Democrats are sent as delegates to the County convention. Put no milk and elder man on guard.

The Platforms All Straddle.

From the Chicago Record.

It is interesting to compare the financial planks adopted by the Republican conventions at Des Moines and at Columbus.
The Ohio Republicans declare for "bimetalism with a currency composed of gold, silver and paper." The Iowa Republicans declare for bimetallism and a currency of the same kind which shall be "equivalent to the best currency of the commercial world." Both are for a money which will be "sound" and equitable. Both fail to enlighten the public in the least degree as to what answer the silver people may expect to get when they come to the St. Louis convention with an implacable demand for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1.

The Platforms All Straddle.

From the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

If sleep brings pain such dire eclipses,
And waits us to so fair a land—
If dreams such happy realms dislose,
With music, light, and fragrance, and—
Or scenes, held in Death's fond hand,
Is laid upon our tired lips?

Harrison has the advantage of four years' experience and his record is as famous as McKinley's or Reed's. Should the wagon suddenly drive intothe auditorium at St. Louis on a warm day of the convention, who can say that there would not be a stampede to it?The universal complimentary mention of the Sunday Post-Dispatch is sufficient evidence of its great popularity and large circulation. The Post-Dispatch comes nearer to the ideas of Sunday readers than any other journal here.It appears that Mr. McKinley has

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

A Butcher Kills His Step-daughter and Himself.

NEW YORK, March 14.—Alexander Neimetz, a butcher of Yonkers, murdered his step-daughter, Mary Wittiwak, to-day and then killed himself. He tired of his wife and 16 years old. The girl remained his slave and this angered him. He placed a revolver against her left breast and fired a bullet through her heart. Then he turned the gun upon himself and fired two shots, dying in a few minutes.

Spring Medicine

Your blood in Spring is almost certain to be full of impurities—the accumulation of the winter months. Bad ventilation of sleeping rooms, impure air in dwellings, factories and shops, over-eating, heavy, impure foods, failure of the kidneys and liver to properly do their work thus thrust upon them, are the prime causes of this condition. It is of the utmost importance that you

Purify Your Blood

Now, as when warmer weather comes and the tonic effect of cold bracing air is gone, your weak, thin, impure blood will not furnish necessary strength. That tired feeling, loss of appetite, will open the way for serious disease, ruined health, or breaking out of humors and impurities. To make pure, rich, red blood Hood's Sarsaparilla stands unequalled. Thousands testify to its merits. Millions take it for their Spring Medicine. Get Hood's, because

HELPED KILL THE CZAR.

A Russian Trying to Make Terms With His Government.

CHICAGO, March 17.—According to the Tribune, one of the Russian nihilists concerned in the assassination of Czar Alexander II of Russia has applied for a pardon to the Russian Government, offering to give his services to the Government valuable information. The Tribune says the name of the applicant is Gregor Krasnow, who for many years has been under the protection of an assumed name, carefully protected by his countrymen. After the assassination of the Czar Krasnow was arrested, but secured his release on bail through influential friends, and fled to America.

For years the Russian police thought him dead, but recently he was found to be alive, and was captured by the police. He is quoted as saying he had been living in the United States for many years, and was well known in his native land over $20,000. They regarded the money as well spent until now. Krasnow, it is said, was in New York a week ago, but has now disappeared.

MARK HANNA IN NEW YORK.

The Politicians Would Like to Know What He Is Up To.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 14.—Marcus Aurelius Hanna, the Ohio Warwick and chief backer of the McKinley boom, arrived in the city yesterday evening. He did not come with his entourage, and in fact, in order at the Waldorf Hotel was to say that he was not invited. Consequently every reporter who was there told that Mr. Hanna was not there, and was not expected. He was, however, though he kept closely under cover.

What the chief of the boom set out was that he was at the Hotel Waldorf and the stereotyped answer at the Hotel Waldorf:

"I know nothing about it, and I do not know anything about here."

Late at night a reporter found two prominent McKinley men, who admitted that Mr. Hanna had been in the city, and had invited him to a conference with him this morning. Neither Mr. Platt nor Mr. Hackard had any information of Mr. Hanna's movements, and the reporter was forced to be worrying much over the matter.

WHITEHORN REID DENIES.

McKinley Money Not Being Used Against Morton.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 14.—The Journal has the following: Phoenix, Ariz., March 14.—A representative of the Journal found Whitehorn, who is in temporary residence in Phoenix and told him of the story published to-day to the effect that McKinley's managers are in his (Reed's) room. The cavalry, 5,257 the artillery, 482 special corps and 1,442 generals and staff officers. The total appropriation allowed the militia to be increased to 160,000 men, and the amount spent in the States, during the same period, spent $2,084,975 on the organizations. It is estimated that probably the militia will be increased to 180,000 men in the different states and territories from three hours in Oregon to 72 hours in the District of Columbia to seventy-two hours in Oregon.

To the correspondent's inquiry what there was in the story, Mr. Reed replied: "Not a syllable."

He made no request, he said, of either the press or the McKinley managers, either to send money into New York or anywhere else. He had made no suggestion of the sort, had never heard that anything was being done to help him, and did not believe it. The correspondent then asked him what about the statement that he was anxious to defeat Morton? He replied that he was not, but that he had a strong feeling, but added that if he were, he certainly could not see anything in the present aspect of Morton's candidacy to warrant the alleged anxiety.

REPUBLICAN SPLIT.

Two National Delegations Probable in Virginia.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

RICHMOND, Va., March 14.—Two delegations from Virginia will knock at the door of the National Republican Convention under the lead of Reed and the others to minimize their troubles. Ex-Congressman Wadell and Gen. Edgar Allen are the leaders of the McKinley forces in this State. Their opponents are from Norfolk, who succeeded the late Gen. Wadell as State Chairman and State Committee-man. Lamb denies that he is taking the lead in the campaign, but is with Reed, and his lieutenants are advocating the nomination of the Maine man.

The district conventions will all be held in about two-thirds of the States, and the convention will appear and contest delegations. The State convention meets in Staunton in April, when the McKinley forces will be in the lead. The Republicans will be in the lead in the campaign, and will be in the lead in the large and 3-2-inch breech-loading rifles, which consist of 12-pounder Napoleons, 3-inch muzzle loading rifles, Parrot rifles and other obsolete ordnance.

The aggregate of all the guns ammunition held in reserve in addition to that in the hands of the troops is not far from three million rounds. Still, the Republicans are not on hand a limited supply of ammunition for these guns. The supply for field guns is very limited and the quality by no means the best.

MISSOURI MILITIA.

Some Sallient Criticisms in the War Department Report.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 14.—Concerning the National Guard of Missouri the War Department report says that 80 per cent of the 1st Regiment can probably concentrate at their armory in St. Louis within two hours, during which time 10 per cent will be concentrated at five hours' notice. The 2d Regiment would need two hours for concentration at Camp Jackson, 50 per cent to be in contact with the 3d. Eighty per cent of the 3d Regiment could be concentrated at Kansas City within three hours, and 100 per cent in five hours. The 4th Regiment requires two hours to be concentrated at Brookfield, 90 per cent to be depended upon. The whole force could be concentrated for short service in St. Louis in twenty-four hours.

As to armament, the report states that it is generally in poor condition, although it is evident that the same condition has not been reached in all parts of the arms. As to the artillery, the carriages are old, prolonged ropes, rotten, chains rusted, and neither the guns, barrels nor calibers are good, being bad for months. It is doubtful if the carriages could stand any considerable amount of firing with solid shot. There are few rifled guns, the majority being very rusty, and 15 per cent are unserviceable. The cavalry has no equipment, and the artillery's equipment is the poorest. The equipments of the infantry are in good condition, but show no indication of especial care.

Here is what the report says about some of the discipline:

"In the 1st Regiment recruits are required to pass a physical examination upon enlisting, and very good men of men have enlisted. There was a disposition on the part of the men to omit saluting and the observance of the usual respects shown to commanding officers. The orders were partially obeyed, and during the camp, the camp regulations were strictly enforced. The camp was kept very clean. The officers exerted themselves and did a good work, especially by competent authority. The personnel is generally excellent. The discipline is good."

In the remarks appended to the report, it is said that "bitful" complaints are made by field officers of the regiment against prize drills. One of the companies of the 1st Regiment, which had been at the International Encampment at the Fair Grounds in St. Louis, but this company was not at the encampment at Mohawk. It is claimed that this company had the best discipline of all the parts of the tactics required for exhibition drills, lacks discipline and instruction in field work and camp life—the latter service. It is claimed by the field officers of the 1st Regiment that the State authorities and the general government are not concerned in the discipline of the troops, and the command of the regiment is in the hands of the commanding officer.

At the meeting of the committee-room by a vote of 22 to 5 the silver question is not dead in Japs County.

MORTON AND SOUND MONEY.

His Presidential Candidacy Depends on the New York Plank.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 14.—Republican leaders formally authorize the statement that Gov. Morton will not be a candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency unless an honest money plank is incorporated in the platform, to be adopted at the State Convention in New York on March 24.
